Company Overview

Global Investor Services, Inc. (www.gisvonline.com) develops and sells high quality, easy to learn educational courses that teach the essential principles of investing. Our educational products are proven to enable anyone from entry level investors to active traders to more effectively manage and monitor their investment portfolios. We market our products under the InvestView brand (www.investview.com) and we offer a series of online educational courses and investment tools that provide progressively complex levels of training for investing and trading exchange based financial instruments such as stocks and stock options.

Over the past 10 years a number of events have changed the traditional stockbroker investor relationship. Among the events having the greatest impact was the growth of online brokers, pervasive consolidation of financial institutions, the proliferation of financial information online, the credit crisis and the current bear market. Compounding these events are the scandals which have undermined consumer confidence in their financial advisor as well as the financial services industry. In our opinion these events have created a meaningful market opportunity for our company.

Subsidiaries

Investment Tools and Training (ITT)

ITT was acquired by GIS Inc. in January of 2008. ITT is the investor education division of the company and its goal is to equip students with financial knowledge, skills and investing habits through a diversified and personal education and training system that includes multiple delivery formats such as live webinars, recorded webinars, live online trading rooms, coaching corner services and newsletters. In April 2008, the company launched its own brand, "InvestView" and has staffed its business with qualified professionals who serve as instructors and advisors. Currently the company offers three educational packages, under a monthly and longer term subscription model, that are called InvestView Core, InvestView Executive and InvestView Specialist. Each course is designed to be user friendly, easy to comprehend and to lead into the next course level which provides more complex material. Each course is also a standalone product.

Razor Data (RD)

Razor Data is our technology platform which was acquired by GIS Inc. in January of 2008. Because a key element of what we sell is to empower each customer to create, track and trade their investments, we supplement our educational courses by offering customers the ability to purchase a direct line data feed that provides the necessary information to manage their exchange traded investments. We market our data feed service as a value proposition because it saves the consumer time and money.
